2010 ANNUAL LABOR LAW UPDATE

Start the New Year right by understanding legal changes that could impact your business in 2010. Congress and the current Administration are poised to change key labor relations laws in ways that will impact every employer. On Thursday, February 11, ABC member Russ McEwan, Esq. of the Littler Mendelson law firm will review recent and anticipated changes to labor and employment laws that every New Jersey contractor should know and understand.

Topics include

- The current status and potential passage of the Employee Free Choice Act (EFCA)
- The RESPECT Act
- Key National Labor Relations Board decisions at risk of being overturned
- Pending State law requiring public works contractors to maintain a certified apprenticeship program.

In every case, attendees will understand not only how the law may change, but what they can do to manage the resulting exposure to their operations.
